Algeria benefits from world-class mineral and metal deposits and the mining and mineral industry provides vast opportunities for profitable business.

CIRMA1 has been organized to complete the implementation of reforms within the Energy and Mines sector. These reforms aim to improve the investment climate by the application of the new mining law and its regulations.

A favorable economic situation in addition to social and political stability provides the basis of success for the implementation of the new mining law that adheres to the universal principles agreed by the industry:

- Open access to mining activities for any investor.
- Equal treatment for all investors.
- Transparent procedures for granting mining titles.
- Legal value for mining titles.
- Automatic right to exploitation shall be granted to the holder of an exploration title who discovered the mineral deposit .
- Specific and adapted mining tax system.
- Stability of juridical, financial, fiscal, social and environmental condition during the period of validity of the mining concession.
- Protection of environment.
- International arbitration.
